Is there a way to find the size of my Employee class? i.e. 8 bytes? A: You can use make_shared. Suppose you have the following definition class Employee{ int m_Salary; std::string m_Name; public: Employee(const string name) : m_Name(name), m_Salary{42}, { } }; you can write a factory function that returns the right object based on the given arguments. The following one will return 8 bytes object if the function is invoked with the arguments "My Name is Bob", and 42 salars. std::shared_ptr get(const string& name) { static std::vector > data({{"My Name is Bob", 42} ,{nullptr, 0} ,{string("Abcd"), 999} ,{string("Wxyz"), -99} ,{string("ABCD"), 0} ,{string(""), 0} ,{string("XYZ"), - 3e33713323
