A Photoshop tutorial app. You can buy Photoshop classes on DVD or download them from various websites. Contents Applying Materials Photo effects involve transferring or "applying" an image's paint or tone onto the canvas. Such effects can include enhancing colors, adjusting tones, colorizing black-and-white images, adding light and shadow, changing colors, and so on. To apply material to an image, open the image's Material window, and double-click the menu item that corresponds to the type of material that you want to use. From the menu, you can select Add New Artistic Material, and choose from the various brush and gradient tools available. You can choose to create a new brush from scratch or use an existing brush. An Artistic Path tool lets you trace the outline of an object on your canvas. When you click the Paint Bucket tool, you get the option to paint an area of the canvas by filling it with the selected material. Effects Photo effects—also referred to as after-effects—involve raster image transformations that impart new aspects to your digital photograph. You can see some examples of common effects in Figure 1. Figure 1. Examples of common photo effects. Hue Rotate You can rotate a color-filled area of the image 90° counterclockwise by pressing Shift + F7. You can also rotate an image 180° by pressing F12. Scale You can scale an image from 50 percent of its original size to any size that you want by dragging a corner handle of the image. Stretch You can stretch an image horizontally or vertically by dragging a corner handle of the image. Flip Horizontal You can flip an image horizontally by pressing Shift + F8. Flip Vertical You can flip an image vertically by pressing Shift + F9. Crop You can crop the image to a square, a rectangular area of no more than a certain size, or the nearest edge of the image. You can also crop an image by clicking inside the crop frame, and then pressing the C key or Command-Option-Shift. Rotate Crop You can select objects within the image and have the cropped area rotated automatically. Crop to Selection You can crop the image to an object within the photo. Sharpen You can

I do get jealous of your tulips. They have something about them that I've yet to capture. Maybe it's just the light :) I was also told this morning not to send you your monthly giveaway. I took my letters to the wife, for I was being played like a fiddle. Or, more accurately, fiddle. So I shall send no more solicitations. But I was thinking that as soon as a new moon comes, you will know when to release a new set of your magic along with your precious new toy to share with a heart of your choosing. I am also thinking of sending a set of my own magical letters in place of the magic you and I make together. I have something to ask you in return. Will you teach me the ways of your magic and how you work the components of this gift? I do not have a gift or talent to offer, but I would love to learn what makes your letters so worthwhile. Please be clear that I would never require your price for tuition or anything else, and it would be my honor to learn from you as long as I may. I have never had the opportunity to seek out such things, and I am not sure I know anyone else with the gift to even teach it. I may be too late for your new moon, but if not I beg your indulgence to wait until you are ready to teach me. I do not want to be forced to do things that I am not yet ready for, or to teach things to someone if that is not what they would truly want. I would go to the moon and back for an opportunity such as this. I am a newbie at this so I do not know if you are looking for a slave or a lover. But, neither am I. So I simply ask that you consider this. And, if you do, let me know. With a look or a wink. If you decide that you cannot do anything about this request, then please take my fingers and thighs, my clitoris and nipples as token of my gratitude. Perhaps there is something I can do to repay your generosity. Will that be ok? I'm not good at explaining the way we naturists do things, so I'll try and keep this brief. But if you ever want to learn anything about naturism and all the wonderful things it can teach you, send me a mail at mulucatroll@yahoo.com

Comparison of the effects of transcranial DC and peripheral nerve stimulation on resting hand tremor in Parkinson's disease. Resting tremor (RT) is often asymmetrical, and the use of volitional RT (V-RT) is limited by patient cooperation. The aim of this study was to compare the responses to transcranial DC stimulation (tDCS) with responses to high-frequency (HF) pulsed transcranial direct current stimulation (pTDS) of the peripheral nerves in differentially symptomatic hands in patients with Parkinson's disease (PD). Six subjects with PD and RT in both hands were enrolled in the study. Outcome measures were RT (peak-to-peak amplitude and duration) during rest and V-RT. The areas under the receiver operating characteristic curves (AUCs) were calculated for the presence of a response to stimulation. The areas under the curve for the maximum amplitude of the PD-off and PD-on RT were respectively 0.91 and 0.92, and those for the duration of PD-off and PD-on RT were 0.85 and 0.80, with no significant differences between both parameters. The results indicate that both tDCS and pTDS can be useful therapeutic tools for RT in patients with PD.Q: How to prevent jquery.js and jquery.min.js (including minified files) in a site from being loaded in 3rd party (bundle) files? My site contains a lot of 3rd party (Bundle) scripts. I use Google's hosted files, such as: (e.g.) Google's hosted files are automatically loaded by browser when the page is visited, and my site uses jQuery library to make some of its features work. (e.g.) My site includes jQuery file (and jQuery.min.js file including it) to provide the jQuery file function. I've excluded jQuery files from the bundle (e.g.) But when i visit any page on my site, Google's hosted files are loaded with jQuery library, along with its minified version, and never
