“With players now being able to move in different directions in a much more natural way, the player’s reactions to aerial duels are more realistic, with players better taking advantage of the situation when in-game situations emerge,” said Dr. Patrick Hoek. “We now have the ability to give players more control over their movements and the speed and accuracy with which they are able to react to situations.” For the first time in the series, players will be able to implement a variation of a tactic known as “the chalk line,” where a player moves towards the touchline, but when the ball comes to them they have the option to retreat, half-time or advance into the area. Players can also activate a tactic where they use two players to protect the front line – moving quickly to follow the attack before recovering. In defense, players can improve their positioning by taking more control of the line they are guarding or by retreating, shifting to improve the angle and location of attack. Players can also adapt their style of play to suit their tactical concepts using a new “On the ball” control, where passing and shooting are handled dynamically. This gives players greater control and awareness of the space they have to use to their advantage. By selecting from a variety of options to attack, defend or perform any part of the game, players will be given more choice and control over the tactics they use. The ability to switch to safe mode means players can take more time to decide their strategy and react to game situations, with options to increase or reduce the difficulty of the match selected on the fly. FIFA Ultimate Team offers new additions for the first time in the series, with “DreamTrees,” which now allow players to grow or build on their favourite players’ attributes. The “DreamTrees” are the basis of PowerUps and Premium Players, which can be collected and used in Ultimate Team games. Players can combine “DreamTrees” to unlock different attributes. Players can now also collect and use boosts to help them unlock their attributes. New attributes include: Speed, Stamina, Agility, Power, Tackling, Shooting and Dribbling. For the first time in the series, users will be able to perform the game’s famous “Pitch Handoff,” which transfers ball possession to their designated team-mate immediately after scoring

Anytime Goal gives players the opportunity to score at any moment on any surface using any type of football boot. Reflex Action – FIFA 22 introduces reflex actions that add a whole new dimension to the gameplay. If the ball strikes your player in the way that they cannot avoid, the game reacts by putting the ball into the goal. However, only a successful reflex will result in the goal, and in FIFA 22, the user needs to hit the shot by the right amount to score or miss. The shots or shots fired in different parts of the goal are all equipped with their own exact distance, making reflex actions come to life in a completely different way. Intelligent Interactions – FIFA 22 introduces new fully interactive elements, and breaks the rules of the game. Shots are allowed to be deflected, using the left or right stick. If a shot hits a player and bounces, he can roll the ball back into play using the left or right stick. If a player blocks a shot with a kick, the ball will rise into the air when it rebounds. The game uses all these innovations to take control of the action, and focus the game on intelligent football, with the players, the ball, and even the fans in the stadium experiencing the thrill of being right on top of the action. MATCHMAKING Matchmaking will allow players to play matches with different types of players and teams. Matchmaking will be available based on the types of players and teams on your profile and your global popularity.
