Category:Orders of SpainQ: How to add subview in the click of submit button? I am trying to add some subviews in the submit button click in the below code. When I am trying to add the subviews in click of the "Submit" button it is not appearing in the application. But when I create the the same view having UIButton and UIImageView the subviews are appearing and working properly. I want the same functionality in the "Submit" button. Can anyone help me out to solve this issue? In this code when the user presses the button, it should load the view in the button click. - (IBAction)btn_Clicked:(id)sender {
SecondViewController *ivc = [[SecondViewController alloc] init]; [self.navigationController pushViewController:ivc animated:YES]; } A: Yes by default button will not show its underline when clicked, I think you are over thinking here, the underline in your button is a visual indicator that you can tap it, just like a button, if you tap on the button you will see your button is clicked. Here is a way you can, using [UIButton buttonWithType:UIButtonTypeCustom]; Assuming that you have a button with default blue background, like UIButton *btn = [UIButton buttonWithType:UIButtonTypeCustom]; btn.frame = CGRectMake(50, 20, 100, 50); [btn setBackgroundColor:[UIColor blueColor]]; create 2 customView for it UIImageView *imageView = [[UIImageView
